CURTIS, George Milton:

Lawyer; b. Worcester, Mass., June 18, 1843; ed. by private tutors and at Baptist Acad., Worcester, Mass.; served in Union Army in Third Battalion Mass. Rifles, during Civil War. Studied law and was admitted to N. Y. Bar; mem. N. Y. Assembly two years; ass't corporation counsel of N. Y., one term; judge Marine Court of N. Y., 1868-74. Distinguished as criminal advocate, has secured acquittal of over sixty defendants charged with murder, and has been successful in cases for contestants in many prominent will cases; successfully prosecuted case of Hess for libel against N. Y. Press, and has appeared in celebrated cases in all departments of legal practice in New York and many other States. Among the cases in which he has appeared, the following are specially celebrated: He represented the Astor House in a suit brought against the proprietors of that hotel, Messrs. Allen and Dam, by J. Milton Turner, the colored U. S. minister to Liberia, under the Civil Rights Bill, for damages, growing out of the fact that they refused to entertain him and give him room at their hotel, and Mr. Turner was defeated in his suit. He represented the celebrated Dr. Helmbold in his various successful efforts to protect himself against his relatives, who sought to put him in a lunatic asylum, so that they might enjoy his property. Mr. Curtis also settled the law in reference to the use of a person's name in the action of Helmbold vs. Helmbold, et al., in which the Supreme Court declared that a man's name was not an asset in bankruptcy, but belonged to him as absolutely as did the hairs on his head and the hands on his body. Mr. Curtis, in 1884, defended William N. Riddle, charged with looting the Penn Bank, in Pittsburgh, Pa., and acquitted him. He also appeared for William Reinlander, who was charged with the attempted murder of Lawyer Drake, and acquitted him. The family then tried to put Reinlander in a lunatic asylum, but were defeated by the efforts of Mr. Curtis. The proceedings in this case were made the basis of the proceedings in which Harry Thaw was the moving party. Mr. Curtis not only saved Reinlander from the consequences of his attack on Lawyer Drake, but also from being incarcerated in a lunatic asylum. Mr. Curtis also appeared for the Abysinnian Baptist Church in its struggle with the N. Y. Southern Baptist Ass'n, and after a controversy of twelve years succeeded in behalf of his clients. He also appeared for the Seaboard Fire Underwriters in their bankruptcy proceedings, and secured a judgment in the U. S. Courts in favor of his clients. He also acquitted Col. Buford, for the murder of Chief Justice Elliott, of Kentucky, in 1879. Among the celebrated will cases in which Mr. Curtis appeared successfully were the Anderson will case, Maltby G. Lane will case, the case of Sister Carmencita of the Sisters of Charity, the will of John E. Bauden, and many others, and for his efforts in these cases the N. Y. World gave him the name of "Will-smasher." He appeared in the Craven-Fair deed case in California in 1897, and the jury stood 8 to 4 in his favor. Address: 5 Beekman St., N. Y. City.

R. R. In recent years has been specially prominent in sale of real estate by auction, in which department is the recognized leader in N. Y. City. Was auctioneer in the now famous Ogden Estate sale, comprising 1500 lots in the West Bronx between Highbridge and Washington Bridge, a four days' sale, and the largest absolute partition sale of city real estate of improved lots in the history of the country; was also auctioneer of the Doherty Estate holdings, which brought $1,913,600, in a single afternoon's selling, comprising property on Broadway and Eighth Av., Manhattan. In May, 1908, he sold over 2,000 lots, holding six of the most successful lot sales ever held in N. Y. City, which achievement was especially remarkable because accomplished at a time of great stringency in the money market, and when the majority of the real estate interests said that it could not be successfully done. He has revolutionized this business and in the past five years has done more for the real estate auctioneering business than any other man; his sales for 1907 aggregated over $30,000,000 which is by far the largest amount of property ever sold by any broker in one year. He is author of the well-known real estate advertising booklet, Brain Impressions. Besides conducting real estate auction sales, he also sells stocks and bonds at auction, and has charge of many executor's sales and appraisals, and other matters pertaining to New York real estate, in which he is recognized as one of the foremost experts on values. The corporation counsel, representing the City of New York, has frequently called on him to testify in reference to appraisals of value of real estate. Mem. Went to New York City in 1880; later became very much interested in work for boys and girls, and in 1890 took a group of children to Freeville for the summer, and for five years thereafter different groups were taken each summer for an outing. In studying children and the work being done for them, came to the conclusion that giving the children everything they needed, free, tended to increase pauperism among them. While thinking over a remedy for this conceived the idea of starting a junior republic, modeled after the U. S. Government, and in 1895 put his ideas into operation. The plan worked so well and created so much interest that it was at once incorporated and placed on a permanent basis. The summer feature was abandoned and a permanent institution established, which is widely known as the George Junior Republic; now devoting entire time to establishment of the Junior Republic System. Independent in politics, with Republican tendencies. Recreations: All kinds of athletics. Address: Freeville, N. Y.
